WASPS AND BEE STINGS

BEE AWARE

As summer nears an end the wasps become a lot more prominent as their favourite food sources start to dwindle, the wasps will be extra busy foraging around for something else to eat.

Be aware of this, especially those of you with an allergy to bee and wasp stings. If you are not sure but suspect that you might be, make an appointment with your GP for a RAST test.

If you know that you are not allergic, it is a good thing to know who, if any in your crew is, so that you can assist with 1st Aid if they do receive a sting.
